 Live from LMU Munich with virtual hubs at Tel Aviv University, University of Zürich, Harvard University, University of Tokyo and Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul

A conference of the European Biological Rhythms Society and the Institute of Medical Psychology of the LMU Munich

18 November 2019. - Timetable and Scientific Program

*The circadian clock and its pervasive impact on metabolism
 From behavior to mechanism*

17:45	Welcome
18:00	Short talk	Prof. Till Roenneberg , LMU Munich “Applying Circadian Theory in the Real World”
18:30	Short talk	Prof. Dries Kalsbeek , University of Amsterdam, Academic Medical Center “Metabolic effects of shift work: time-dependent effects of feeding, fasting and exercise”
19:00	Short talk	Prof. Henriette Uhlenhaut , Technical University Munich and Helmholtz Center “Cistromic Reprogramming of the Diurnal Glucocorticoid Response by High Fat Diet”
19:30	Refreshment break
20:00	Short talk	Prof. Henrik Oster , University of Lübeck “Coordination of Behavior & Metabolism by the Circadian Clock Network”
20:30	Short talk	Prof. Maria Robles , LMU Munich “Protein cycles controlling metabolism”
21:00	Short Talk	Anne Marie Finger , Charite Berlin “A Potential Mechanism of Intercellular Coupling in Peripheral Circadian Clocks”
21:30	Refreshment break
21:45	Welcome Address	Prof. Bernd Huber , President LMU Munich Prof. Yaron Oz , Rector Tel Aviv University
22:00	Plenary Lecture	Prof. Paolo Sassone-Corsi , University of California at Irvine “Linking Epigenetics and Metabolism through the Circadian Clock”
23:15	Farewell
